Adam Middleton joined Manchester Square Partners in 2011. He works with clients across a range of different areas:

- He serves as a sounding board to senior executives, helping them to make good decisions about their business and their role
- He sits alongside senior executives when they are considering and planning their professional future

- He assesses current and future leaders to help Boards of Directors and sources of capital select the right executives to run their businesses.

Adam joined Manchester Square from an executive search boutique where he co-founded the senior management and board practice. Adam completed CEO, Chairman and Non-Executive Director search mandates for both quoted and private equity owned companies.

Adam started his career working in an investment role for a private family office in Jersey, helping to buy and run businesses across Europe and the US.

Adam graduated with a first class degree in Economics and Finance from Loughborough University.

He enjoys playing tennis, fell walking, cooking and following the ups and downs of Tottenham Hotspur.
