Since stepping down from her role as founder and CEO of the international charity AfriKids, Georgie has been an adviser and coach to senior executives from leading firms, ranging from hedge funds to professional services and tech start-ups to social enterprises.

Georgie's engagements include acting as a sounding board and advisor to senior executives, facilitating executive off-sites, top team and leadership strategy days, as well as providing analytical assessments for CEO or ExCo roles and leadership teams.

In her spare time, Georgie maintains a keen interest in the charitable sector, holding trustee positions with AfriKids and Amantani, as well as acting as an advisor to charities and enterprises including Women in Sport, School of Social Entrepreneurs, Khula, STARS Foundation and The Dusty Knuckle.

When time permits, she indulges her hobbies of photography, tennis, yoga and travel to Africa.
